On our last evening, we had a late dinner at Social Wine Bar & Restaurant at 188 East Bay Street in the heart of historic downtown Charleston. The diverse menu includes tapas, gourmet wood-fired pizzas and house-made desserts. The décor is modern and seems to cater to a younger crowd with techno type music and streamline furnishings. The food was really good. With a group of friends, this would be a fun place, especially late at night when the wines flow and the spirits rise!
